RHYMES FOR ALL
The American Soldier.
Tis a far, far cry from the minute man,
And times of the buff and blue,
To the days of the withering jorgensen,
The hands that hold it true.
Tis a far, far cry from Lexington
To the stars of the China sea,
But ever the same the man and gun—
Ever the same are we.

For the blood of the three at Bunker Hill, Through countless fierce campaigns,
Is as red and eager in peril still In the depths of the children's veins.
And the heart and the eye support the hand,
No matter what odds there be—Ever the same they are we.
Not a Valley Forge, nor a Wilderness, Nor hall of a Cuban steep,
Can take one jot from our fearlessness,
Who daily thy honor keep.
We carry the flag through varying scenes—
From the sign of the old pine tree,
To the stars and stripes in the Philippines—
Ever the same are we.

And the lad with the fresh unshaded mouth Fights as his fathers fought,
And the man that the north and the man from the south
Do as their fathers wrought.
And whether from city or farm we come,
We answer the call with gladness—We heroes upspring at the beat of the drum.
Ever the same are we.
—Edwin L. Sabin, in Munsey's.

Mabel in the Country.
Now Mabel's gone, how dull the town!
I loiter in the square,
And if the sky or sun or moon
Tis not a lot I care.
With her in her Arcadian air, Mine eyes that found before These urban heights bright and fair Behold them so no more!
Despite the charm her presence flings O'er barren streets of stone, Despite the glow and grace she brings Where men make bitter moan, Not these her true hearts' haunts, but these
And tangled woodpaths wild, Where Nature welcomes back her own
Her home-returning child.
I know the flowers must lean to her
Who is so blossom-sweet;
I know the grass and moss must stir
With thrills to feel her feet;
I know the birds must "twit" and "twee"
To glimpse her feigning by.
And all the little leaves repeat
A loving litany.
Aye, she is gone, and loneliness Possesses me like pain!
What bliss in some remote recess
To hear her voice again!
To mark with her the sunset strain,
To hark the twilight hum—Ah, must I wait, and wait in vain,
The word that bids me come?
—Clinton Scollard, in Saturday Evening Post.

Papa's Day Dream.
She has gone, with twenty trunks, down to the sea,
She has gone and left the hired girl and me—Gone and taken Sue and May Seven hundred miles away.
Where the salty breeze is blowing fresh and free.
She is happy where the bounding billows play,
Flinging money I have had to earn away.
She is looking over the seas
For my darling little ones—Ah, the younger of them's twenty-six today!
She has gone, with twenty trunks, down to
the sea
To try to find two sons-in-law for me,
And while I labor here
I am pestered with a fear
From which I vainly struggle to be free.
She is far away beside the ocean blue,
With the darlings that we live for, May and Sue—
O when they tell the shore Shall I have to toil for four Instead of merely working on for two?
—E. E. Kiser, in Chicago Times-Herald.

Peace.
Peace to the ship that, spite of winds and waves,
After long toiling wins her port again,
And under friendly shore at anchor rides.
Peace to the toiler with the hand or brain,
When, the long labor of the daytime past, Comes dreamless sleep, to heal fatigue and pain.
Peace to the weary heart that finds at last Faith after doubt, and trust instead of fear,
With all its care upon the Father's cast.
"Peace on the earth"—yea, earth again shall hear
The angel's song—the night of dark distress
Shall vanish, and the day of Christ appear, That knows no storm, nor pain, nor weariness.
—Talcott Miner Banks, in N. Y. Observer.

At the End of the Way.
There'll be rest—there'll be peace at the end of the way,
When the shadows are lost in the infinite
day,
And the songs that we sing, and the prayers that we pray Shall be answered with rest at the end of the way;
There'll be lilacs of love at the end of the way,
The wearisome winters shall blossom to May,
And rest shall be sweeter than beautiful
When we dream in the light at the end of the way.
—Atlanta Constitution.

Margie's Laugh.
There's a twisted golden cable Hanging near my study table;
If I seize and gently pull,
All at once the air is full Of a merry little chime,
Like the pealing of sweet bells,
Silver bells, bells, bells.
But the very truth to tell,
'Tis no bell-pull, and no bell;
Only Margie's shining hair Dangling backward o'er her chair;
Only Margie's merry laugh,
Sweeter melody by hair
Than the sweetest of all bells,
Silver bells, bells, bells.
—Julia Schayer, in N. Y. Independent.

The Post's Perambulator.
Under the blue of Jersey
I watch him gayly fly
Behind the old lawn mower,
Singing a lullaby.
The daisies lean to capture The syllables of gold
He scatters on the breezes
With madcap joy untold.
Upon the old lawn mower Which up the hill he boasts,
A seat is rigged, and in it His crooning baby roasts.
—R. K. Munkittrick, in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

Charitable Judgment.
"In men whom men condemn as ill, I find so much of goodness still,
In men whom men pronounce divine,
I find so much of blot,
I hesitate to draw the line Where God has not."
—Tocum Miller.

THE ICEMAN'S LOSS
According to a Calculating Barber It Figures Out to Be Considerable.
"How'd you like to be the iceman?" Snyder, the calculating barber, was artistically executing a quickest stop on the razor stop when the above little ditty floated in from the busy thoroughfare, causing a smile of contempt to flit across his features, says the Philadelphia Record. "That simply makes me weary," he remarked, as with a flourish he dabbed the patron's face.
"You hear that latest acquisition in the way of slang phrases repeated by men of every station, just as if the iceman's lot was an earthly paradise. As a matter of fact, the individual who embarks on a career which involves the marketing of congealed moisture doesn't have to run around searching for his troubles. How many people, do you suppose, ever think of the amount of money that drips right out of the ice-man's hands when the sun beats down on his heavily loaded wagon? Don't amount to much, eh? Well, you'll change your opinion when I bring up a few figures for your consideration.
Starting out with a ton of ice, I estimate that melting alone causes a dead loss of about 100 pounds to the dealer.
This doesn't seem much, but when you calculate that about 1,000 wagons a day right here in town lose that amount the figures are amazing. One hundred thousand pounds, at, say, ten cents per hundred, runs up the tidy sum of $100. Three hundred and sixty-five times $100 gives us the annual loss locally as $36,500. Takes a little nerve, doesn't it, to be an iceman? Then, if during the summer these drippings could be collected, I figure that they'd supply all the hospitals in town with ice water baths for sunstruck patients.
Frozen into a solid lump, if the entire of these drippings could be collected, I figure as a ten-story building. Then again, the waste when the cakes are cut is enormous, to say nothing of what vanishes into the air when the ice is whisked clean with a brush broom. But without going into further details, I think you'll agree that the man who peddles ice has enough trouble to worry him into an early grave.
Touie?"

A FRESH CROP OF HAIR.
Terror at the Danger of His Son Causes a Man's Hair to Change Color.
Everyone has heard stories of men and women becoming gray-haired in a night as the result of grief or terror.
Many of these tales are doubtless the mere imaginings of the writers of sketches, but that such phenomena are of occasional occurrence has been fully demonstrated. A Chicago physician relates this instance in a medical journal and vouches for its truth: The subject was a laboring man in the stockyards district, aged 38, who was not of a nervous temperament beyond being slightly emotional. His hair was abundant and of a dark chestnut color. One evening as he was returning home preceded by his horse, on which was mounted his son, aged eight, the animal slipped and the child was thrown off and trampled on several times. He was only severely bruised, but the father thought he was killed, and in trying to save him was terror-stricken. He trembled and had palpitations and a feeling of cold and tension in the face and head.
Next day the hairs of the head, beard and eyebrows began to fall in quantities, so that after eight days he was absolutely bald. At the same time the skin of the head and face became pale.
Without delay the hairs began to grow again in the form of a colorless down.
Soon all the affected regions were covered with fine, more silky and a little more thinly sown, completely white hair.

LIQUID OR SOLID?
Upon This Question Regarding Asphalt a Trial in a Trinidad Court Hinged.
Down in Trinidad, where most of the asphalt used in paving the streets of Chicago is produced, opinion is divided as to whether the substance may be classed as a liquid or a solid. Upon this issue, says the Chicago Chronicle, a recent trial in Trinidad turned.
The stratum of pitch in that island is usually from four to seven feet below the surface, and when cut through the pitch melts and oozes out. So, if a man dug down near his neighbor's lot, he would be able to collect pitch coming from under his neighbor's land. The plan was described by one of the witnesses as "the plan adopted when you want to dig your neighbor's pitch." "It boogies out," he explained,
"and you shove it off each morning."
But suit was brought by one outraged neighbor whose pitch had thus been shaved off in adjoining land. The defense was that an underground stratum of pitch was like so much water, no man's property until appropriated.
But the court held that pitch was a mineral, and that he had no more right to abstract it from a neighbor by the oozing process than you would have to tap his deposit of iron or silver.

Had Been Shaking Long Enough.
At a recent duel the parties discharged their pistols without effect, whereupon one of the seconds interposed and proposed that the combatants should shake hands. To this the other second objected as unnecessary.
"Their hands," said he, "have been shaking for half an hour."

A Queer Expedition.
An expedition consisting entirely of women has been formed in Australia to explore the Solomon Islands, the home of the fiercest cannibals known.
Hitherto white men have been able to penetrate only a few miles inland.
